

Suspicious Behavior on Sherman St

This sounded very odd. 911 was called twice.

At about 9pm Saturday night a neighbor, female living alone, had her doorbell rung. A man was at the door and stated he was from Upsal Street and wanted to know if she needed her leaves cleaned up. She has hardly any leaves on her yard. From the incident last week (where the woman was robbed from a man ringing a doorbell shortly after being observed taking in groceries), me and the neighbor both called 911. The person was described as African American in his twenties with a red baseball cap.

The police came right out and were very suspicious and had two cars looking for this guy. Also, my neighbors yard is about as spotless as you could imagine. No leaves anywhere. She and the cops think the line about being a neighbor from Upsal was made up. She spoke to him through a locked screen/storm door. Everyone on our block thinks a man looking for yard work at a home with a single female at nine at night with a house with impeccable landscaping is more than fishy. It was too similar to the guy who robbed the woman with the groceries a week or so before.
